

Abstract

A method is presented to control engine valve
5 selection of an internal combustion engine.

Electromechanical valves are selected in a manner to reduce fuel consumption and improve engine drivability.